

YOUR SUPPORT HELPS US EMPOWER THE EACR COMMUNITY AND NURTURE INDIVIDUAL GROWTH

EACR Industry Partners provide flexible funding that isn't limited to specific projects or events. We're always eager to show how your contributions help to make a real difference and ensure our community can keep making strides in cancer research. We're thrilled to share some of the fantastic things we've accomplished for the research community in recent years, thanks in part to the funding from our industry partnerships.

WEBINARS

Each year, approximately 8 public webinars are organised in partnership with EACR Industry Partners, as well as additional separate scientific and career-focussed webinars exclusively available to EACR members. The industry-based webinars are often the highest attended and consistently receive excellent feedback. The highest on-the-day attendance saw 321 people tune in from 42 countries! All participants received on-demand links to revisit the webinars and EACR members can access them in our video archive, making every webinar a long-lasting educational resource.

PODCAST

In 2023 we launched The Cancer Researcher Podcast, which looks behind the scenes at the inspiring and challenging world of being a cancer researcher. We now have a library of over 30 episodes featuring renowned scientists who've given insights into their research and careers in academia, publishing, industry and more. This is an open resource, available free of charge to the global cancer research community.

TRAVEL FELLOWSHIPS

Each year in collaboration with Worldwide Cancer Research, we offer fellowships, each up to €3,500, to enable early-career cancer researchers to gain new skills through a short-term visit to a lab or research group in another country. Each year we are able to support around 20-30 early career researchers to develop skills and exchange knowledge beyond national borders through lab placements. You can read lots of inspiring stories from EACR Travel Fellows here.

TRAVEL GRANTS

EACR Travel Grants provide support to early-career EACR members and members based in low- and middle-income economy countries to attend EACR conferences. We're committed to fostering rising stars across cancer research and to removing geographical barriers for education, knowledge exchange, and career progression. Each year, supported by Worldwide Cancer Research, the EACR awards around 80 travel grants to researchers who would otherwise not have been able to attend our conferences.

MEMBER BENEFITS

We recently developed a Find a Collaboration tool, where members can post their projects and request collaborators. You can read one of the success stories here. We also launched a pilot mentoring programme, matching members with researchers at the next stage of their careers. We ran additional free virtual networking sessions for all members on topics such as 'Sparking Creativity in Cancer Research' and 'How to choose the right postdoc for you'. These sessions allow an open dialogue between researchers without the traditional barriers that come with in-person events. Such benefits are a key resource for our members at any career stage.
